- Aero-modelling workshop was organized on 28th April 2022 for the students to expose them to the design of RC planes and drones suitable for applications in agriculture
- Air show was organized on 29th April 2022 evening displaying the SLIET students' skills in the field of Drones and RC planes

- Various Technical workshops were organized as pre-fest activities from 11th April to 28th April 2022 for the learning of the students regarding the latest technologies like IoT in Agriculture, Electric Vehicles, Rumor Detection, Deep Learning based Android App development and Hands on training on Arduino applications.

The techFEST'22 story started with a dilemma whether in ONLINE or OFFLINE mode. Last year techFEST'21 was conducted in online mode. This time Team SLIET decided to organize techFEST'22 in HYBRID mode. But the door was opened for students for OFFLINE classes and activities in the third week of March. Time was noticeably short, and Journey was awfully adventurous but support from Professor Shailendra Jain, Director SLIET and TEAM SLIET made it obvious. Prof. Shailendra Jain Director SLIET appreciated the efforts of techFEST'22 team for bringing the students and participants on this platform enabling them to exchange their ideas and show their talents in offline mode after a long gap of 2 years. techFEST'22 helps in enhancing the skills of the students in line with the latest technologies in a fun oriented methodology.

The two days National level techFest'22 with theme "Technology for Agriculture" was started on 29th April 2022 at SLIET Longowal. Dr. Nachiket Kotwaliwale, Director ICAR-CIPHET, Ludhiana was the Chief Guest, Prof. Indra Mani, Joint Director Research, ICAR-IARI, PUSA, New Delhi was Guest of Honor of the opening day. The theme "Technology for Agriculture" was greatly appreciated as the role of engineering in agriculture is a need of the hour.

Prof. Shailendra Jain requested to adopt same theme for next five years. The Chief Guest, Dr. Nichiket, emphasized that the skills which cannot be learnt within the classroom teaching would be learnt by designing, developing and participating in these kinds of technical Fests. Prof. Indra Mani emphasized that agriculture is the backbone of Indian economy and envisaged that engineers can do wonders if they excel at studies along with technical skills. He also applauded the college Management and commended the efforts of team techFEST'22 for the smooth and successful conduct of this type of National Level Fest. Under the ambit of techFEST'22 many workshops and competitions were conducted. In total 7 workshops became part of techFEST'22 namely Rumour detection, Internet of Things in Agriculture, Workshop on Deep Learning based Android Development, Electrical Vehicles, Hands on training workshop on Arduino, Aero-modelling workshop, career guidance conclave from Microsoft. 1450 students participated in various events (1139 boys and 311 Girls). Our industrial collaborator Microsoft, and many more companies like Red-bull, Coca-Cola, UNACADEMY, etc. have sponsored this festival.
